Guy

THIS SUMMER, OUR SANCTUARY said goodbye to a gorgeous and iconic being. A large white wolf with striking eyes and a serenely watchful character, Guy passed away on a quiet afternoon at 15 years of age.

Guy arrived at Wolf Haven in 2012 when he and his longtime companion, Anna, were surrendered by their previous owner. The two wolves went on to make Wolf Haven their forever home and spent countless mornings playfully chasing each other around their lushly vegetated enclosure at the top of the sanctuary.

After Anna's passing, Guy welcomed a new female wolf into his world: sweet Billie. The pair became instant friends and their shared, mellow personalities allowed for a peaceful life together. Curious by nature but sheltered by a comfortable distance from public route activities, Billie and Guy spent hours on top of their platform watching visitors learn about their kind.

Guy also seemed to have a rich community life. Guy (often accompanied by Billie) was regularly seen via remote camera interacting at the communal fence with his next-door neighbors, Shadow and Juno, and more recently, Penn and Ellie. He always gave his all to a good collective sanctuary howl, too.

You are deeply missed, dear Guy. The sight of you trotting through the fog and evergreen leaves on a classic Washingtonian wet morning will stay in our minds and inspire our hearts for years to come.
